

Hugh Findlay

Sorry

I am sorry I missed our call.

I have some thoughts on it though.

Someday, we will look back with wonder,
and decide these were important times.

And we will ask ourselves why we did not see it then,
and we will say to ourselves it was thus and so and we were glad of it.

And there were words that went between us that defined us,
and places spread out before us that we were destined to go.

And we were with each other and then not and then again,
and we shall think we should've been lovers.

But then we will realize we always were.

And that is why I am sorry I missed our call.